

Narrative Writing

Primary and Secondary Characters

The Setting

Beginning

Middle

The Problem

The Climax

The Solution

The Ending

Transition Words.

Elements of a Narrative

Interesting Characters

A Problem or Conflict

A Theme

A Strong beginning, middle and end.

Narrative Writing Checklist

Set the scene for the reader.

I have interesting primary and secondary characters.

I have a clear beginning, middle and ending.

I have used capital letters and full stops.

I have organised my thoughts and ideas.

I have used dialogue in my story.

I have used transition words to link my story together.

I have used paragraphs.

Writing Prompts:

It was the year 1987. Everything had changed upon my return.

It was Easter Sunday, 1916. I could hear the gun shots in the distance.

I had always known there was something unusual about this place..

It all began when Matilda met the wizard in the forest.

It was a warm summer's evening on the harbour, when we spotted the fin circling.

I looked around me in amazement. Could this actually be happening?

It was the happiest day of my life. I had just..

Created by Múinteoir Valerie.

Clipart Credit:

